

The plant is a small, upright, branching shrub, growing from a thick, gnarled, horizontal root system. The stems are covered in small, dark, scale-like or leaf-like structures. At the tips of the branches, there are clusters of small, round, seed-like fruits. The drawing is done in a fine-lined, etched style.